PHINEAS C. LOUNSBURY, President. ALLEN S. APGAR, Cashier. E. V. GAMBIER, Asst. Cashier.

In the last Report of the Superintendent of the State Insurance Department of New York, the following figures are given for the Mutual Life of New York:

Assets, December 31, 1889,	$135,638,539.00
Income in the year 1889, -	31,119,019.62
Insurance at the end of 1889,	565,839,387.00

A few comparisons will show the magnitude of the business of the Mutual Life, relatively to other great interests of the world.

The income of the Mutual Life in 1889 was greater than the Customs Revenue of the United States in any year, except two, during the first sixty years of the existence of the Republic under the constitution.

The outstanding obligations of the Mutual Life are greater than those of the United States were at any time during the first seventy-four years after the first inauguration of Washington as President.

The payments made by the Mutual Life during the year 1889 exceeded the sum paid by the United States for civil and miscellaneous expenses in any year prior to 1854; they exceeded the sum paid by the United States for pensions in any year prior to 1868.

Its income in 1889 was about twice the sum of the revenues in 1887 of the Kingdom of Denmark; nearly three times the national revenues of Norway in 1887, and of Switzerland in 1888; and more than three and one-half times the revenues of Persia in 1886; it was nearly as large as the State receipts for the year 1887 of the three great States, New York, Pennsylvania, and Ohio.

The number of persons whose lives are insured in the Mutual Life is more than seven times the number of troops enlisted in the decisive year of the Revolutionary War (1775-1783), including Continental Soldiers and Militia.

The Mutual Life Insurance Co.

OF NEW YORK

ISSUES

Endowment Policies with an Option of a Contract for Life.

Such a policy entitles its owner to draw the Endowment in cash with the accumulations, or to continue the policy Paid-up for Life. The Company guarantees to pay annually for life an amount equal to four per cent. of the sum insured, and the dividends on the policy besides.

NO MEDICAL RE-EXAMINATION WILL BE REQUIRED FOR THE CONTINUANCE OF THE POLICY.

EXAMPLE.

An investment at age 37, of $800 annually for ten years, secures a guaranteed contract which will pay at the end of twenty years, or at death if prior, $10,000 (which is 25 per cent. more than the total amount paid the Company) and the accumulated surplus, estimated at $7,580.

This contract gives the option of leaving at the end of twenty years, the amount of the Endowment and all accumulations with the Company until death,—without any further expense,—and guarantees an annual income for life of 4 per cent. on such amount, and the dividends.

The maximum amount of the investment is $800. The minimum income is $400 per year, which is 5 per cent. interest on the amount invested. The annuity from the $7,580 estimated accumulations of the twenty years distribution period is $303.20, making an annuity of say, $703.20 in all. There will be in addition, the future dividends from the original investment of $8,000, with the guarantee that the entire amount of the Endowment and accumulations will be paid at death.

The advantages gained by the Company in more than forty-six years' most successful experience are embodied in this contract. After the third annual premium is paid, a paid-up non-participating policy is secured to the amount of $1,000 for each year's premium paid.
